About Susan Rainey

Susan is a passionate and enthusiastic knitter, and has been for over 50 years. She appreciates both the journey and the destination, and loves diving head first into the amazing variety of knitting – lace, cables, colorwork, you name it. Don't ask her to pick a favorite! Discovering invisible stranding was a game changer that she just had to share with other serious knitters.

Susan is known for her technical expertise and flawless finishing. She pores over every detail to get the best result. Susan has won countless ribbons at the Minnesota State Fair, including 13 sweepstakes awards.

Susan teaches knitting classes and dabbles in design. She shares her passion for knitting with her equally obsessed sister, Sally, on their blog "The Rainey Sisters" at <http://therainey SISTERS.com>, which has been going strong for over a decade. They also moderate a group on Ravelry of the same name.
